

Japanese?

Kwassui Women's University, Nagasaki, Japan

June, 28th (fri.) - 30th (Sun.), 2013

The 14th Annual International Conference of the Japanese Society for Language Sciences (JSLS2012)

JSLS2012 will be held at Nagoya University, Japan. Nagoya University is conveniently located with an on-campus subway station, Nagoya University (Nagoya Daigaku) station on the Meijo Line. It is about 25 minutes by subway from JR Nagoya Station.

Conference Dates:

- Note: We will have pre-conference talks in the afternoon on June 29th (Fri.).

Venue: (Higashiyama Campus):

- Lunch Map

Conference Poster

.

Program

International Symposium on Language Processing (Pre-Conference Symposium)

- Note: On the same campus but in a different building at B4(1)

Plenary Speakers:

Prof. Niels Schiller (Leiden University, the Netherlands)

- "Morphological encoding in language production: Behavioral, electrophysiological and functional imaging evidence"

Prof. Colin Phillips (University of Maryland, USA)

- "What is a mental grammar?"

Prof. Mutsumi Imai (Keio University, Japan)

- "Representation of sound symbolism in the mind and brain"

Invited Symposium “ Why do we study Japanese sentence processing? ”

Invited Speakers

- Yuki Hirose (University of Tokyo) : "Encoding and decoding of wh-scope in Japanese from the perspective of incremental processing"
- Hajime Ono (Kinki University): "Integration costs in the processing of Japanese wh-interrogative sentences"
- Masako Hirotani (Carleton University) : "Rethinking the role of Broca's area in sentence processing"

- Pre-registration has .
- On-site registration info.

Access to Nagoya University (Higashiyama Campus):

From JR Nagoya Station (Nagoya Eki)

- Take the Higashiyama Subway Line (yellow line; bound for Fujigaoka) to Motoyama Station (15 min.), and transfer to the Meijo Subway Line (clockwise direction). The first stop is Nagoya University (Nagoya Daigaku). (Exit 1)
 - <http://www.nagoya-u.ac.jp/en/global-info/access-map/access/>

Site: Graduate School of International Development, Nagoya University

- You can find the building at C4\(1\) on the map below:
 - <http://www.nagoya-u.ac.jp/en/global-info/access-map/higashiyama/>

Call For Papers (CFP) Abstract due on Feb. 10th, 2012

- Please Click Call for papers for more information.

Conference Committee

Chair: Katsuo Tamaoka (Nagoya University, Japan)

Committee members

Questions?

- Please contact us at jsls2012@googlegroups.com